Ottawa, ON - 'Beans', the brand new comic strip satirizing the federal political scene, will see the light of day on September 7th for a six-week (+1) roll-out that will wrap up on October 19 (cough, cough...).

Less tedious and certainly more chuckle-friendly than our 11-week election campaign, this 31-strip story arc will cover the re-election antics of Stevie, Student Council president, as he aims for a fourth term.

'Beans' is hot off of a successful crowdfunding campaign and has received the endorsement of none other than Ed the Sock, who boldly stated that this "great Canadian comic strip... will help balance out the mountain of crap."

And he's no dummy.

'Beans' is based on real-life people and events. Featuring a motley cast, it dissects the current political climate with its acerbic humour. 'Beans' is inside baseball without the lame commentary, torpor, steroids or any sign of sports anywhere.

In other words, it's pitch perfect.

Prepare yourselves: 'Beans' is coming September 7th!!!
